Adventure!

Once upon a time,

Many light years ago, there was a famous hamburger shop. It was called Mr Yummy's Super-Duper Hamburgers! And was very well protected; the restaurant had three of Legion 501's greatest battleships defending it! One day a meteor was seen, zooming down towards Mr Yummy's! Luckily, the biggest battleship blasted the meteor and it exploded in a shower of sparks!

The meteor had been destroyed, but as it smashed to the ground it burst into flames! The chef at Mr Yummy's called the fire brigade and all they could do was wait for the fire engine.

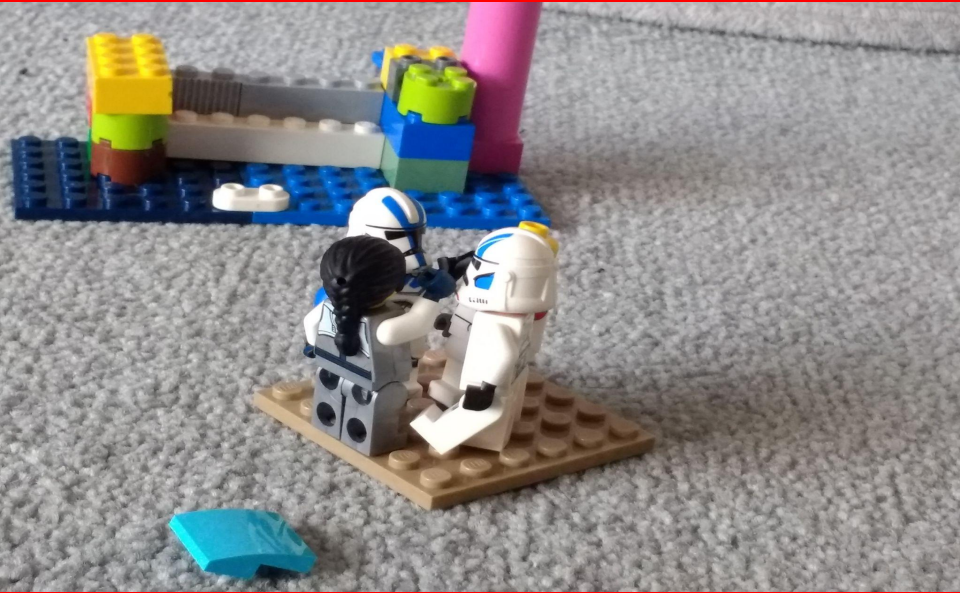

But no! What put out the fire was actually a fire helicopter! Everyone was surprised to see this bizarre form of transport, but they were still relieved to know that the fire was out.

The water from the helicopter battled with the flames as the battleship pilots watched the sparks splutter and eventually go out.

Steam rose from the searing water.
There was so much of the white substance that it covered the whole area in a thick mist. All that remained of the fire was a wet puddle.

Yay! The battleship pilots had protected the burger shop from the meteorite! “HI-FIVE!!!” The team leader, V3M0716 exclaimed. (they all had code names; no-one knew their true identities except the big boss.) Because they had destroyed and safely disposed of the meteorite, all of the squad would now be promoted to senior officers!
